

Belize / Sun Dancer II

UNESCO World Heritage Site

Immerse yourself in the underwater beauty of Belize—home to the world’s second largest barrier reef, the famous Blue Hole, and three of only four true coral atolls found in the Western hemisphere. Designated a UNESCO World Heritage Site, the Belize Barrier Reef Reserve System is home to extraordinary marine life that includes everything from sea turtles, spotted groupers and stingrays to pink-shelled conchs and schools of tarpon. The Blue Hole, named for its tantalizing color, appears on many divers’ Bucket List. The perfectly round geographical wonder stretches 1,000 feet across and 412 feet deep with access to a stalactite-filled cave just 130 feet below the surface.

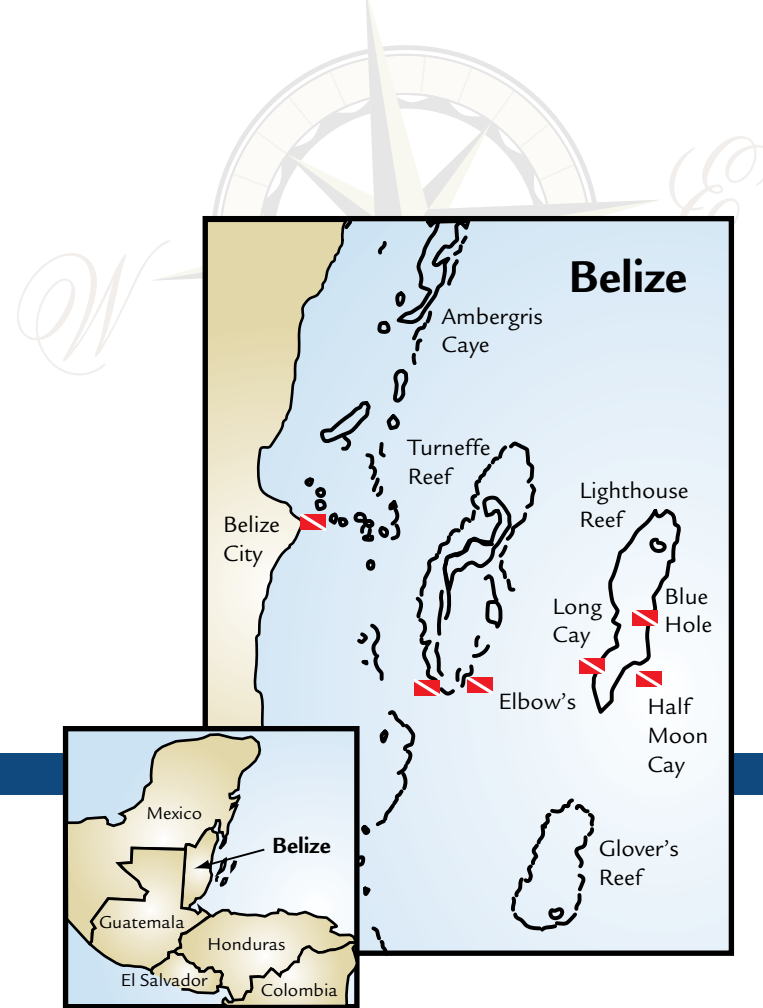

Nestled between Mexico and Guatemala, Belize is located on the Central American coast of the Caribbean. As a tourist destination, Belize offers an intriguing mix of tropical rainforests teeming with wildlife, majestic mountains, mysterious Mayan temple ruins, and diving and fishing opportunities beyond comparison. Here, the people are as warm and friendly as the climate.
